MR. McDONALD INTERVIEWED.

THE RECEIVER TALKS FREELY WITH THE STAR MAN.

Will Soon Leave Ocala—A Dividend Not Likely to Be Declared on the First.

THE NEW RECEIVERSHIP.

The STAR reporter repaired to the First National bank early this morning to interview Mr. McDonald as to the result of his Washington trip. When asked if he accomplished the purpose for which he took the trip Mr. McDonald said:

"Yes, I did. The comptroller of the currency, J. H. Eckles, did not officially accept my resignation, but said he would do so just as soon as he could appoint my successor, which would be about August 1. There are several applications on file for the receivership—two or more being from Ocala.

"Mr. Eckles paid me the compliment of saying he wanted me to retain my commission as United States bank inspector, as there were occasionally complicated cases coming up in the south that he wished to assign to me, as my success heretofore in winding up these knotty cases has made my services appreciated by the government."

When asked his opinion on the matter of the bank's declaring a dividend in the near future, Mr. McDonald said:

"This is a question that I hardly like to discuss freely, but I will say that before my trip to Washington I thought we would have been in a position by the first of August to declare a dividend of 10 per cent, as we have about enough money in Washington to pay off that amount, or possibly a little more.

"It depends a great deal upon the depositors when this dividend will be declared, as Mr. Eckles told me he would take no action until virtually all of the claims were proven. It is astonishing how slow the depositors are to come forward with their claims. I began advertising for them to do so early in June, and up to date there are only about 30 per cent of claims proven. Five hundred is the number of proofs filed. I think there are something over fifteen hundred claims, but Mr. Massey says there are nearer two thousand all told, and he ought to know.

"As soon as the bulk of these claims are in, Mr. Eckles will give the people their money, as far as it will go, and the percentage paid will depend altogether upon the collections made between now and that time."

"What about your position as president of the Elyton company, of Birmingham, Ala.?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, I accepted that, and as soon as my successor is appointed and he and I have time to go over the business here together and get all in proper shape, I will go up and take charge of it. There will be several days' work in the bank to finish my business, as I will have to receipt for everything and get the new receiver to understanding everything. Then I will bid the good people of Ocala good-by and make my home for a while in the state of cotton and peaches. Your people have treated me very nice and I shall leave them with many regrets."

Mr. McDonald said he cared not who would be his successor, but many would not be surprised if he came from Ocala. We, on our part, should be sorry to lose this excellent business man and pleasant gentleman, who in his short stay has greatly endeared himself to the people of Ocala. But his interests are in Alabama, and thither he must go. His new position will be far more lucrative than that of receiver.

A MAMMOTH STORE.

What do you think of it? We mean F. E. Bugbee & Co's half page ad in this issue. Mr. Bugbee has the largest furniture house in the state south of Jacksonville, if not larger than any in that city.

It is an enterprising house, and managed in a manner that will make it a great success, although money is scarce. Mr. Bugbee, by good management, is doing a good business, and sells a great quantity of furniture and the many other articles carried in this immense stock. There are four full sized floors at the store filled with goods, besides the big warehouse.

The warehouse and two upper floors of the store are packed with goods to the ceiling, leaving barely enough room to walk about. Call and go through this store, you will find smiling men who will not frown if you purchase nothing.

Household Ammonia, 10 cents.
Good Mixed Tea in packages, per pound, 20 cents.
Alderney Cream Toilet Soap, 6 for 25 cents, at the Bazar Store.
